Assistant Principal John F. Joyce

Because we in education like and work in happy proximity to your generation, we are presumed to be authorities on your actions and reactions, your opinions and outlooks, your convictions and beliefs, your manners and mores, your aspirations and dreams—in short, we are expected to be thoroughly and conscientiously informed about you and your world.

So when your elders ask such questions as "What are young people really like nowadays?" or, more often, "What is wrong with the present younger generation?" my answer must be: "From the privilege of being occasionally allowed insight into their world, I have to say that nothing is wrong with them. They are no worse than we were at the corresponding age. They are, in fact, better. They are far more mature and balanced; they have more solid values. Therefore, let us stop focusing on the minority fringe of social deviates and appreciate the true worth of the ninety-nine per cent whose decencies and virtues never make the headlines."

I salute the good class of 1968 as typical of this ninety-nine per cent. I congratulate you on the wealth of your accomplishment up to this time. I am grateful for the promise of your future. I thank you for the inspiration you have afforded my calling during the past three years. I look forward with eager and confident expectation to the world you will make for us. May our paths cross again and often.

Principal Emile S. Johnson

Congratulations!

May you continue to work diligently in the vocation you have chosen. Remember what Benjamin Franklin said—"He who hath a trade hath an estate."

Industry is looking for young, energetic and willing workers who will give an hour's labor for an hour's honest wages. May you uphold the standards that have been set before you. Good luck.

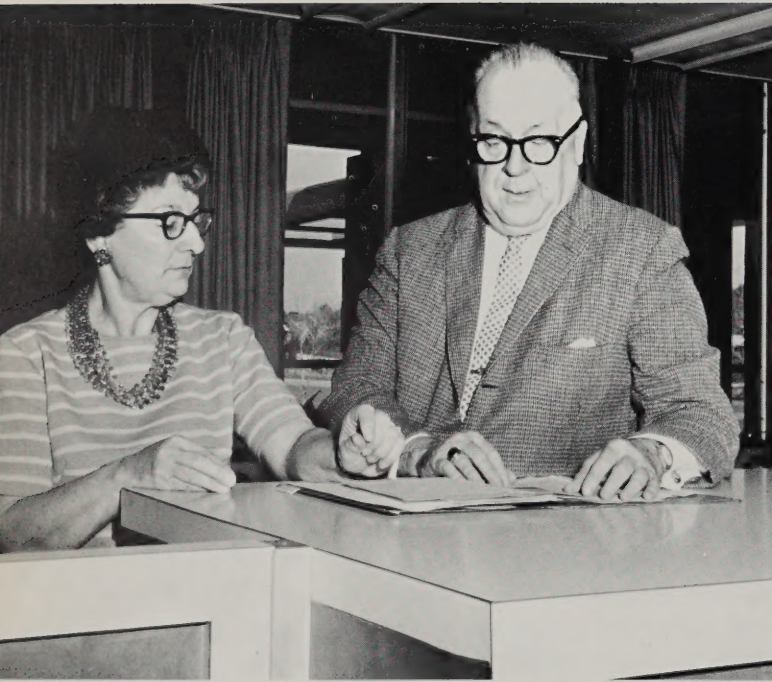

Principal Charles D. Bird

At this particular time in our society many paramount issues are being analyzed and debated. Deeply seated traditions, social mores, protocol and institutions have been and will be revised as a result. You are in the midst of an age where pursuit of the truth plays a growing role. In America, where the pioneer spirit is evidenced with pride, this inquisition is a compliment to the active mind. With this transpiring about us the great emphasis falls upon prudent judgment preferably unscarred by impetuosity, ignorance, immaturity, or other phenomenon unbecoming quality in the decision making process. In the maze of information some biased by incompetency, vested interests, and personal prejudice, it becomes increasingly difficult to sort out the facts so necessary in forming an intelligent opinion. The information gathering process is an important one. You, over the past years, have been presented with the method and resources to establish and implement an effective personal program of this type. Be watchful of false or misleading information, but be appreciative of reliable and valid facts and logic. You will be contributors to the future. Make your mark a positive and truthful one that will stand the test of time.

WHO DOESN'T KNOW . . .

This book is dedicated to a man who is as well liked as he is familiar. In his thirty-four years of service to the school system, he taught English and German for several years; he was advisor for the Senior Class Play for thirty-one years, has been advisor to the Student Cabinet for eleven years, and Assistant Principal for ten years. This record is proof that our affection for and trust in him have not been misplaced.

But this man is more than just the list of his accomplishments. He has given generously of his time and effort to the students. He has worked tirelessly for the school. But perhaps most important of all, he always has a smile and a pleasant word for everyone.

We, the class of 1968, salute and thank Mr. John F. Joyce.

English

The fear of five-minute speeches, calisthenics with grammar, reading literature and writing essays, and the occasional triumphs over torturous outlines—all these composed our daily English classes. Under the leadership of Mrs. Florence Farwell, head of the English department, our talents and abilities came to life.

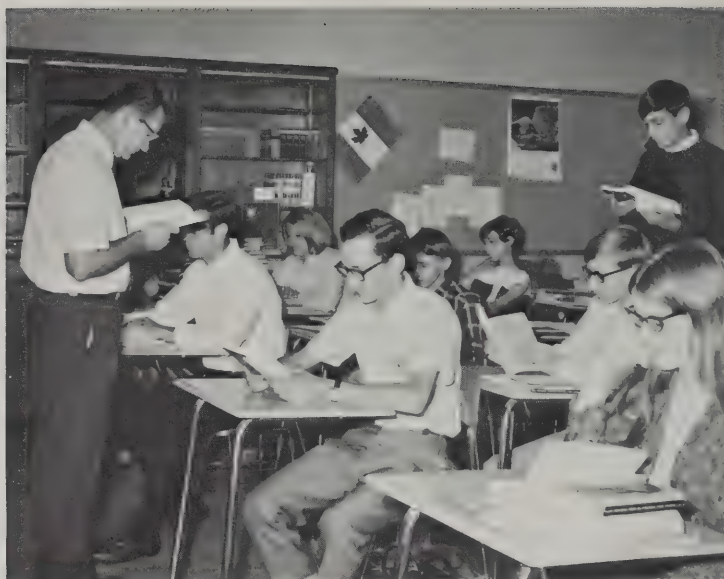

Distributive Education

The Distributive Education course provided first-hand work experience for those students planning to pursue careers in retailing and merchandising. Under the careful direction of Mrs. Dorothy Gottesgen, students follow an intensive work-study program designed to prepare them for a promising future.

Public Speaking

Learning to communicate was the main purpose of the public speaking classes headed by Mrs. Elsie Adams. This aim was achieved through group discussions, individual speeches, and other class activities such as pantomimes.

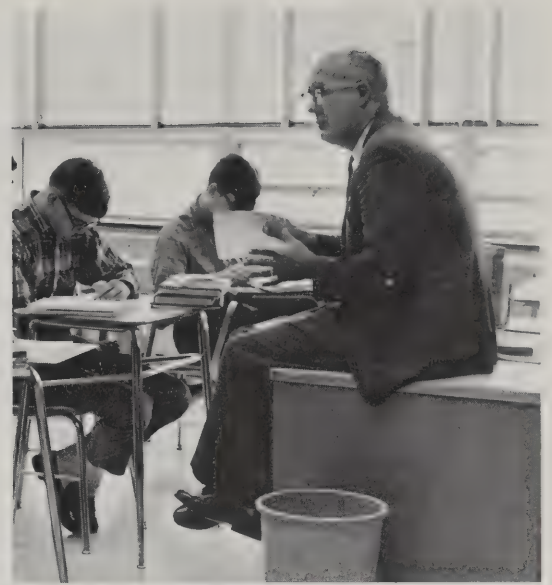

Foreign Languages

Excessive study of conjugations, declensions, word order, and vocabulary drills were stressed by the foreign language teachers. This department, headed by Mr. Eugene Rheault, offered four languages—Latin, French, German, and Italian. The latter three were taught under the ALM programs, which lend enrichment and vitality to each course, their glimpses into the country's culture, and way of life.

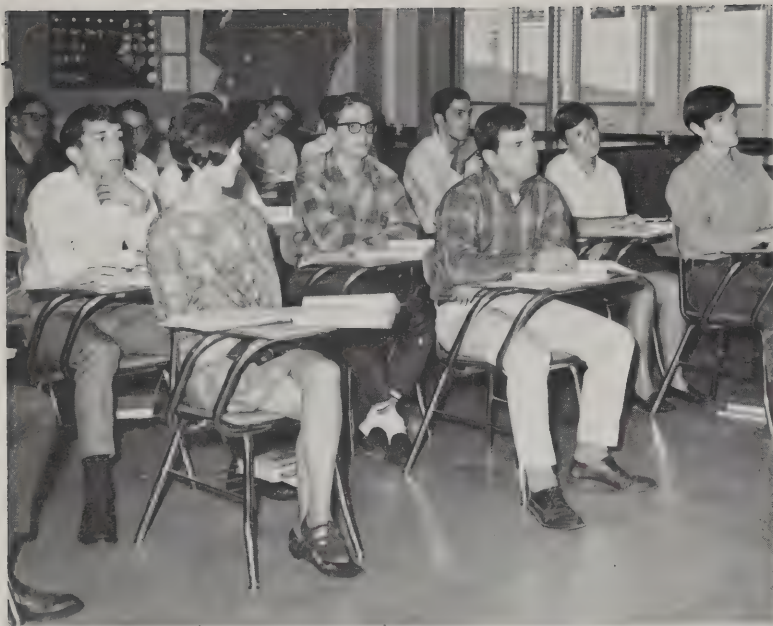

Social Sciences

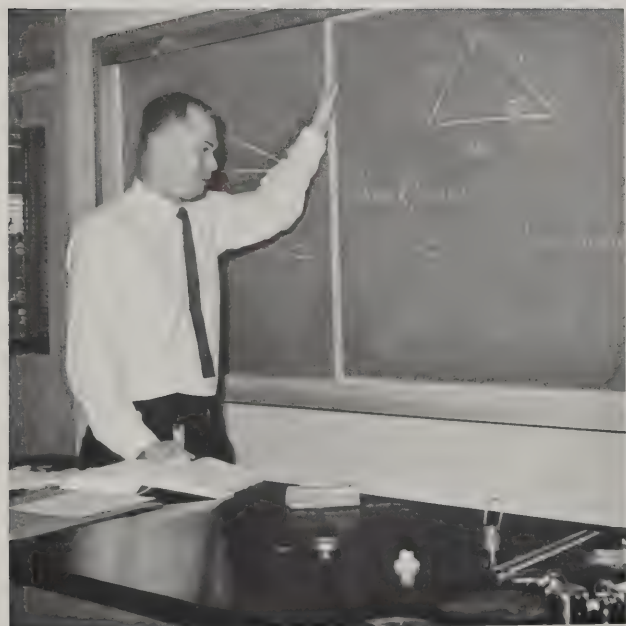

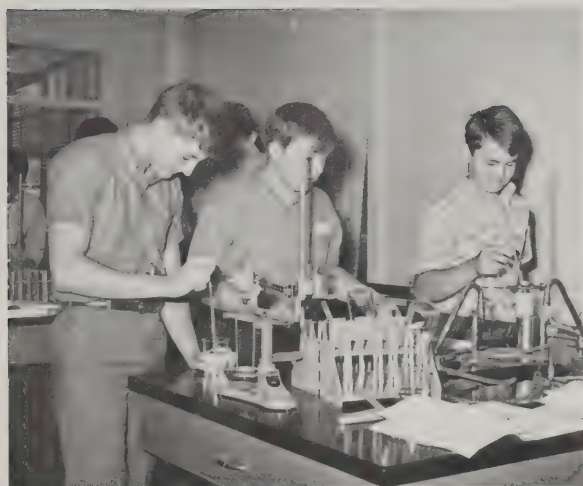

Under the leadership of Mr. John Magane, head of our diversified social studies program, we were exposed to the main ideas of American and world history, the meaning of geography, and the basic principles of economics. Sociology and human relations were also studied in depth.

Science

Under the able guidance of Mr. Marvin Kendall, the science department offered an interesting and stimulating variety of courses. Students will long remember tedious hours of repeating experiments, memorizing plant and animal phyla, and wading through the maze of physics formulas.

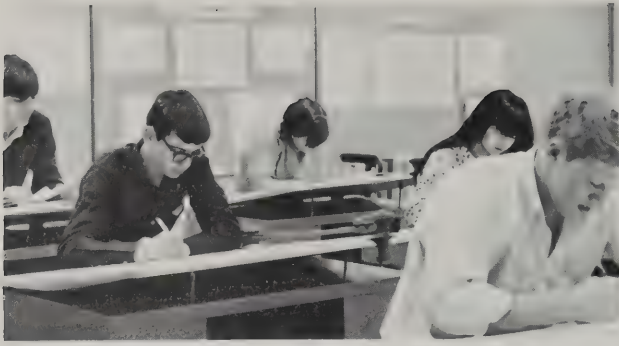

Mathematics

The quadratic formula, the Pythagorean Theorem, algebraic equations—these were among the ideas and concepts discussed in the mathematics classes which are under the direction of Miss Helen Hartnett, department head. Students were also encouraged to attempt to solve problems by the use of logic and deductive and inductive reasoning. This year calculus was added to the list of mathematics courses for those students who were interested in the exciting field of advanced mathematics.

Industrial Arts

Industrial Arts covered a wide range of areas which are essential in our technical world today. Mr. Robert Anderson and Mr. Leonard Johnson instructed students to work with the tools, materials, and processes used in industry.

Art

Dripping paint brushes, splattered easels, and eager faces were all typical sights in room 306. Under the supervision of Mr. Richard Pelletier, students were encouraged to utilize their creative talents.

Music

Music was always in the air in room 310. Mr. Elgidio Bisceglia developed the students' knowledge and appreciation of good music by covering classical as well as contemporary works. Mr. Bisceglia also encouraged students to participate in the dance band, orchestra, marching band, and vocal groups throughout the year.

Physical Education

Basketball, football, volleyball, and soccer, as well as rigorous workouts on apparatus—all these activities were part of the enthusiastic physical education program. The goal of this program, conducted by Mrs. Patricia Pothier and Mr. William Hazell, was to keep all students physically fit and to teach them the value of fair play and good sportsmanship.

Home Economics

Something was always brewing in Miss Louise Cavanaugh's home economics class. When they were not slaving over a hot stove, the girls were busy learning the finer points of sewing and the etiquette that will be required of them as homemakers.

Business Education

The clacking of typewriters and the page-flipping in steno classes were familiar sounds in the B.E. department, which is headed by Mrs. Betty Leonard. Through such courses as bookkeeping, transcription, business law and salesmanship, students learned the skills necessary in the business world.

Nurses Aide

Nursing is an age-old profession, but the nurses' aide program, which worked in collaboration with the Fairlawn Nursing Home, was new to L.H.S. In its first year at L.H.S., this course offered students the opportunity to learn the duties of a nurses' aide while completing their high school year.

Auto Mechanics

The automotive shop, supervised by Mr. Gilbert, was equipped to analyze and repair all troubles in any make, model, and year vehicle manufactured anywhere in the world. Actual repairs were made on registered vehicles owned by the students and teachers in the school.

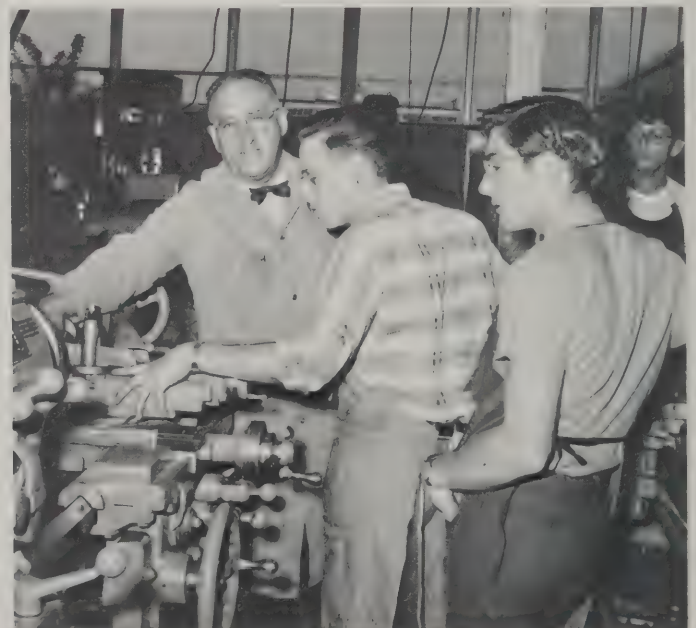

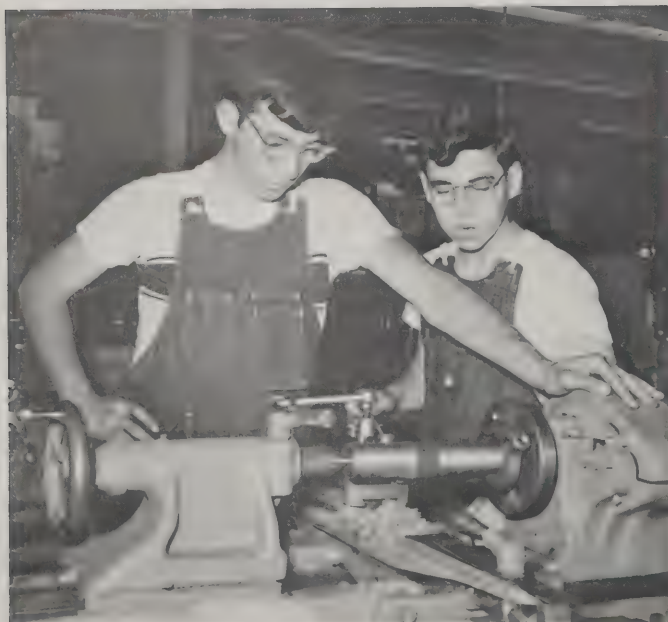

In the related class, conducted by Mr. Howard Hatch, instructional material was covered relating to the actual work in the shop. This course covered the operation of various tools and the basic techniques of repair. The main idea was to attain an understanding of the science related to automotive work.

Machine Shop

The skills of tool and die molding and its related fundamentals were offered in the machine shop under the direction of Mr. Algedio Membrino. The students not only learned the principles of tool and mold building but actually had the opportunity to put their knowledge to work.

Electronics and Hydraulics

The electronic and hydraulic department of the trade school conducted a four-year course supervised by Mr. Moryl. The freshmen and sophomores were introduced to the fundamentals and application of the basic direct and alternating current theory. The juniors learned basic electronics and applied their knowledge to circuitry while the seniors summarized their previous three years' work and studied hydraulics. In the related class, conducted by Mr. Felice delGuidice, the theory which was applied in the shop was thoroughly explained.

Drafting Related

In drafting related, supervised by Mr. Harrington, the students learned the fundamentals and mathematics involved in drafting. In addition to drafting apparatus, the related room was also equipped for experimenting in stress, elasticity, and structure of metal.

Machine and Tool Design Drafting

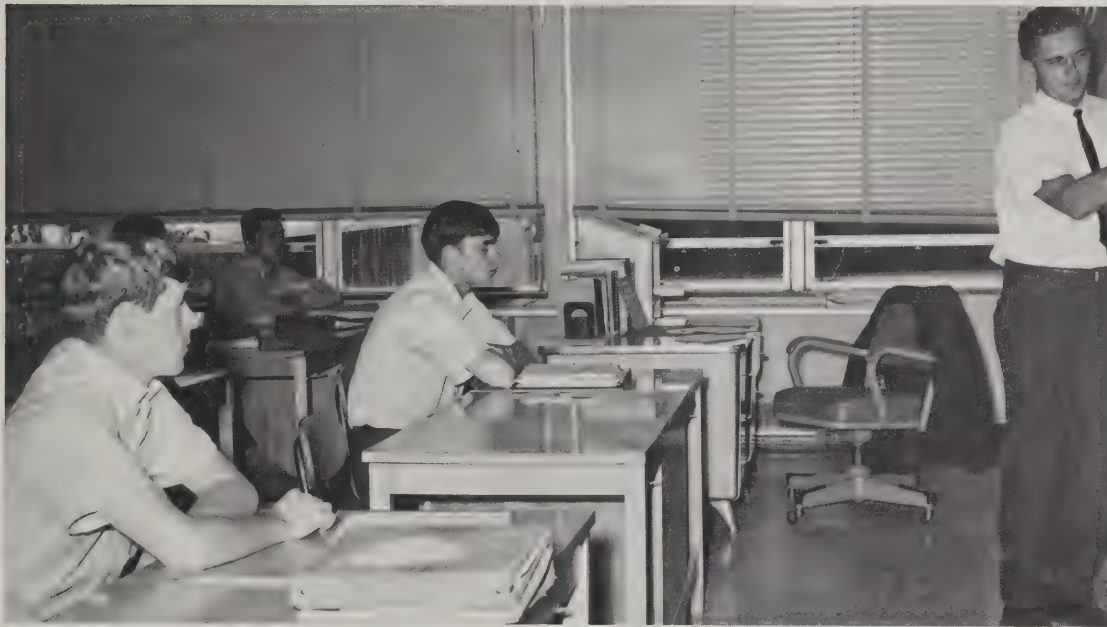

In the drafting department, under the supervision of Mr. Hemenway, the students were confronted with the basics and complexities of technical drawing. The course covered such aspects of technical drafting as piping, hydraulics, camshafts, and graphs.

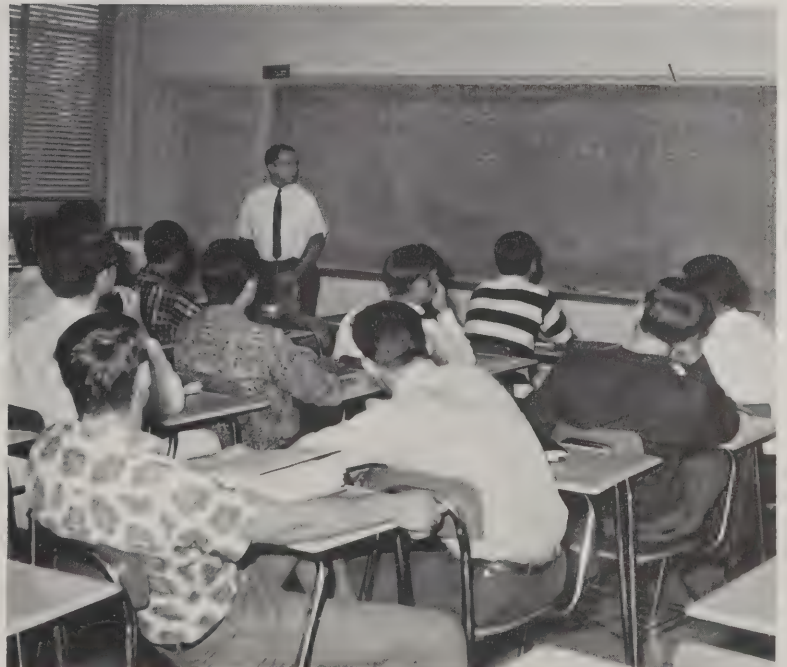

Carpentry

Preparation for the future was the keynote of the carpentry course. Under the careful supervision of Mr. Burton and Mr. Mooney, the freshmen and sophomores learned the fundamentals of this trade while the juniors and seniors put their knowledge to practical use in building a model home. Mr. Geary rounded off the course in his blueprint reading and architectural drawing classes.

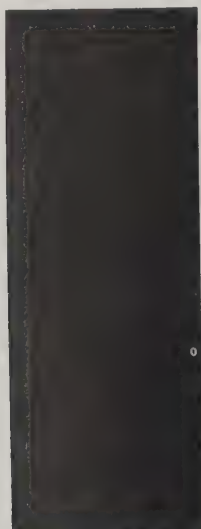

Trade School's Academic Week

The daily grind of book learning dragged on throughout the week in the academic department. Intensive instruction was given in the fields of English, history, mathematics, and language arts.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Seniors—Through the past three years we have shared with one another a part of our lives which we will treasure forever. For me it has been a unique experience, one which allowed me to develop character and leadership. Allow me now to thank you for bestowing on me the honor of being our class president.

In the years to come we will face new and different problems. Let us always remember to face the world with truth and determination. For if our accomplishments at Leominster High School are any indication of our abilities and virtues, then I can justly say that from the ranks of our class of "68" will arise the leaders of our nation.

TRADE SENIORS

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

The class of 1968, Leominster Trade High School, has many people it wishes to thank. To Emile Johnson, our principal; and Mr. Spencer Lunan, our guidance advisor; we extend our special thanks for having helped us with our problems, both small and large.

Our special thanks must also go to our classroom and shop instructors, who have helped us on a day-to-day basis for the past four years. Without their constant help and encouragement we would not have made the grade.

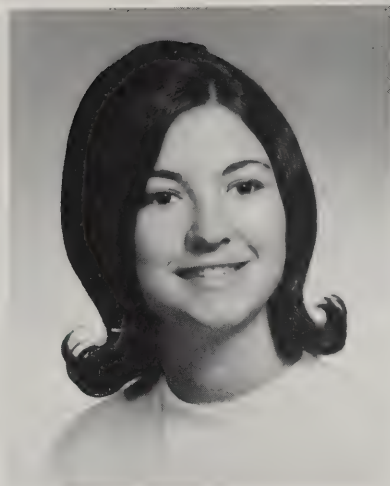

Last, but not least, we would like to thank the undergraduates, who have helped to make our senior year one to remember.

We are about to face the challenges of the world. We now feel that we are prepared to meet, and cope with, these challenges.

Underclassmen — A Vital Force in School Activity

The sophomores' timidity on the first day of school . . . the juniors' returning from a summer, prepared to take on their responsibilities as upperclassmen—the underclassmen have added much to the success of our senior year. We only hope that they have gained knowledge from their experiences this year to guide them through future years.

Would you say a few words for the public, Buelah?

Caught in the act.

Oh no, my picture's being taken.

Where did you come from?

Underclassmen . . .

The opposing forces are ready.

An afternoon stroll.

As We Contemplate . . .

Before we depart from Leominster High School, our thoughts turn to a particular person. He was a guiding force of our high school careers. This responsibility did not remove him from us; however, for our relationships with him were warm and friendly.

As he leaves us, we recall the numerous times we went to him to receive the good news of college board scores, athletic awards, and other honors. At other times we came seeking advice and guidance or to straighten out other problems.

Finally, we think of the many duties he did for our benefit, but without our knowledge or thanks. His contributions to Leominster High School in leadership and encouragement were unnoticed by many of us who benefited most.

We want to take this opportunity to say thank you, Mr. Bird, and wish you good luck in your new position.

Leominster High School had school spirit—plenty of it. Glimpsing down the halls decored with colorful posters or attending one of the rallies before a big game left no doubt in anyone's mind. The school spirit was indeed high.

School Trips

Many times during the school year various organizations had the opportunity to travel to places and functions that benefited, yet entertained the students. The students were given the chance to learn from experience—an essential ingredient in education.

The fall activities begin . . .

The parents converse with the teachers.

As the leaves began to change colors and the weather turned cooler, the students finally settled down to the daily routine of school. The time of uncertainty and newness has passed and the school activities began.

Parents' Night

On Wednesday night, November 8, the parents and teachers had an opportunity to discuss the students' problems and achievements. The students from the three classes served as ushers, helping the parents find their way around the school.

Hey, what are you girls doing down there?

A little more tape should do it.

Light socks, dark socks; grubby socks, no socks; textured stockings, colored stockings; all kinds were seen at the GAA Sock Hop. Shoes were forgotten for the evening, and a good time was had by all.

On November 22, the auditorium was the scene of the "DECA Fashion Happening", sponsored by Ruth Lee's. Not only were there clothes, clothes, and more clothes; but for a change of pace, the audience was entertained by some of the best dancers in Leominster High School. On March 20, Deca was honored to present the same program at the Sheraton Plaza Hotel in Boston for the DECA State Convention.

Christmas is the season of giving, and in the truest tradition, the students gave of their talents for the annual Christmas assembly. Such favorites as the "Hallelujah Chorus" and the "Carol of the Drum" performed by the chorus and the band, drew warm applause. To bring the needs of many men to our attention, Mrs. Adam's public speaking classes made their unique presentation of slides and appropriate verse. The overall effect of the program gave each of us a warmer and fuller season.

Assemblies — an essential ingredient of our learning process

A few minutes before the assembly.

From alcoholics to opera, many aspects of our culture were seldom discussed or presented to us in school. Such subjects must be covered by those qualified to do so. Thus outside help was sought, obtained, and presented in assemblies. This exposure was in the form of enjoyable, provocative, or serious programs. The extra work required of those responsible for our assemblies was well worth the effort. The knowledge we gained has become an integral part of our education.

It was another successful year for Coach Huck Hannigan and the Leominster High Blue Devils. After dropping the season opener to a powerful Nashua High eleven, the Devils came roaring back to defeat their next five opponents before being confronted by a strong Gardner team on a dismal day in the Chair City. The hard-fought 0-0 tie game did not weaken the spirits of the Blue Devils, however. The following week they hosted a visiting team from Schenectady, N.Y. and handed them a humiliating defeat.

But success did not end here. The team came through for coach Hannigan for the third straight year with a rousing defeat of Fitchburg High in the annual Thanksgiving classic.

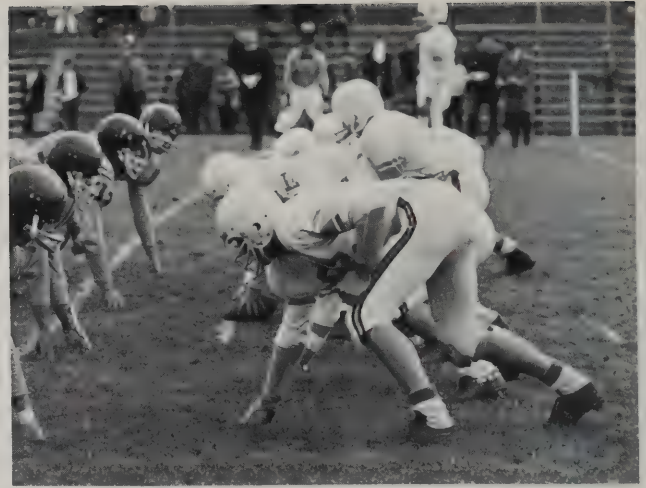

Not soon to be forgotten was the deft ball-handling and expert signal-calling of quarterback Jack Rodriquez; the strong line support of center John Ritzo, guard Fran Fontaine, and tackle Chuck Leblanc; the great defensive play of veteran linebacker John Culley; the sensational running of speedster Alan Anderson; and the superb all-around play of tackle-end John Hulecki, winner of the Thanksgiving Lane Memorial Trophy for the second straight year for his outstanding play.

In addition, these fine seniors received excellent support from underclassmen Phil Carr and Nick Bergman on offense, and defensive stand-outs Dave Santucci and Bill Ferzoco.

Congratulations to a fine coaching staff and a superb team!!!

As usual, the opposition behind him.

Try kicking the ball next time.

Put your right foot in and you swing it all about.

ouch!

Why doesn't everyone just stand there?

Their lack of experience was replaced by a will to win . . .

To say the least, the newest addition to the sports scene was surprising. Despite hard summer workouts and plenty of pre-season practice, a rookie team having a winning season seemed impossible. With cautious optimism, the booters journeyed to Cushing Academy for a pre-season game. The team's four well-executed goals set a precedent for the year.

Seasoned Worcester County teams soon found themselves victims of Leominster's determination and jarring play. Ron Levesque foiled shot after shot. Fred Salvatelli and Mike Holohan kept opposition scoring opportunities to a minimum with long boots and hard hitting. Kevin Haverty and Wayne Rosa controlled the sidelines and supplied some good assists. Niel Shepard, center half, rounded out the defense and also responded with some long range scoring punch. Ken Tata and Joe Aratori provided good control and accurate passing in the front lines. The high scoring of Gus Boucher and Mark Hanson supplied the last component for a winning team. -

Perhaps the season can be summed up by referring to the locker room setting after the final clutch victory over West Boylston. The team was awaiting the outcome of the Narragansett game for if Narragansett were to be defeated, the championship would be ours. Everyone was on edge as Coach Johnson walked straight-faced into the room and announced, "Well, boys—WE WON!!!"

Two more points for L.H.S.

Freddy drives against Fitchburg

BASKETBALL

Well, it was not as good a season as last year's—but it surely wasn't bad.

This seems to be the best way to sum up the L.H.S. basketball season for 1967-1968.

Despite some crushing losses incurred by last year's graduation, the Blue Devils rebounded to a .555 season and had the NCMC basketball league's top scorer in 6-4 center John Hulecki. In addition to Hulecki's fine play, the rest of the scoring punch was supplied by teammates Jack Rodriquez and Kip Crowley. Dave Santucci and Fred Scherer rounded out the starting line-up and were called on at numerous times during the year's campaign to which they responded with valuable assists and clutch scores.

The high point of the season came in the form of a 69-59 end-of-season victory over a Fitchburg High team that had, prior to this meeting, established itself as one of the top basketball powers in the area.

Congratulations are again in order for Coach Ted Damko for the fine job he did in keeping Leominster High in the ranks of local basketball powers!

Here comes Jackie!

Get that ball, Tom.

This is how we'll do it.

SO LITTLE DONE
SO MUCH TO DO

A step back in time . . .

Wayne and Ken got everything under control.

The finishing touches in the last minutes before the curtain rises.

A little make-up can do miracles.

The curtains opened on the Class of 1968's production of The Crucible, and the audience slipped back to the 17th Century to view one of the most horrifying incidents in America's history. Arthur Miller's emotional masterpiece not only provided great entertainment, but brought a timely message to the audience. Written at the height of the notorious McCarthy hearings, The Crucible illustrates the danger of guilt through association and mass hysteria. The seniors transferred this message from the pages of the script to the stage with all the skill of a professional cast.

Although the entire cast did a splendid job, best acting honors went to James O'Toole and Margaret McDonough. The Crucible will long burn in the hearts and minds of the "Class of 1968."

A strange sickness takes Betty Parris.

The townspeople cannot explain the sickness.

Goody Proctor is accused . . .

... and is summoned to court.

Mr. Proctor tries to amend his ways.

... To the terrifying Salem witchtrials

The bewitched girls sit quietly ... for awhile.

The court
scene ...
the tension
crescendos.

The tension breaks.

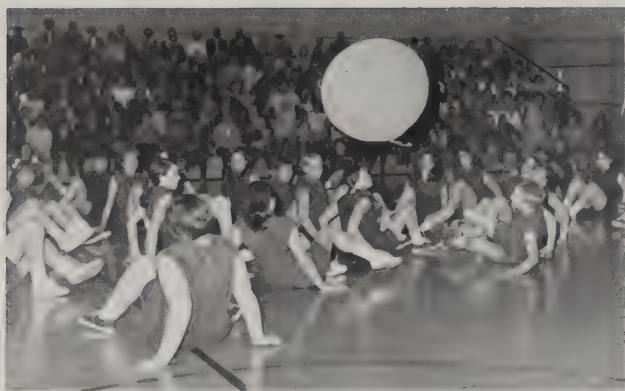

Three months later—the morning of Mr. Proctor's hanging.

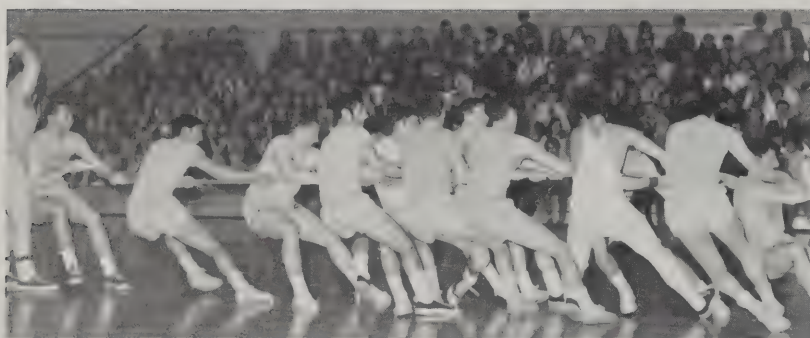

A well-earned applause to the entire crew.

We stay physically fit . . .

The girls play a rugged game.

The senior boys display their tremendous strength.

Gayle and Pat perform well.

Every year the GAA awards three deserving senior girls the white blazer award for their unyielding enthusiasm and participation in sports throughout their high school years.

This year, though, the award couldn't be limited to just three. Although it was hard to select even four girls, the blazers were awarded to Paula Powell, Kathy Buss, Nancy Laprade, and Cathy Papia.

Hup, two, three, four . . .

For the second consecutive year, the Physical education Department presented a gymnastic show to the public. Coach Hazel and Mrs. Pothier, along with everyone in the department, spent long hours in preparation for the show, hoping the public would have an enjoyable evening and a view of what actually goes on in the gym during school hours.

Lady beams with pride, as the girls show their blazers.

One night during the year the same girls who are terrors on the court and field act and look like young ladies.

The guests of honor.

. . . And have good times

Bulah performs a hilarious monologue.

Throughout the year GAA has functions for earning money, and for enjoyment. This spring the club held their annual fashion show, a large success. Also on May 1st the annual mother-daughter tea was held in the cafeteria. This function paid tribute to the mothers and also gave everyone a chance to meet the members' mothers. All the members were invited to Doyle's camp for food, swimming, and just plain fooling around on June 11th. And last, the final function, the GAA banquet—the time when the seniors were awarded for their service. This year the banquet was held at the Franklin Manor. A perfect evening—a perfect ending to a wonderful year.

The members come with their mothers to the tea.

The girls wait for the food, patiently?

Angela receives the purple heart—a unique award.

Angela accepts the award graciously.

Lady is surprised.

Judy Avery is awarded for her hard work.

Good times, good friends—enthusiasm in sports—this is what GAA means to its members.

There were those who sat . . .

. . . and those who could have danced all night.

And the final social event to a wonderful year . . .

Another outstanding year . . .

This year's baseball season was an overwhelming success. The team was undefeated through the regular season and into the semi-finals of the District Three playoffs with an unprecedented 19-0 record. They lost a very close game in the final contest in which the tension carried into the bottom of the ninth inning.

Outstanding performances were turned in throughout the year by seniors Mike Marchand, Blue Devil pitching ace; John Culley, the catcher of Leominster's powerful hurling battery; and Ron Levesque, a key man on offense and defense. Among the juniors, Gus Boucher and Greg Picucci in the infield, and Nick Bergman in the outfield turned in many performances.

Congratulations to a fine team on a memorable season!

Blue Devil's star hurler—
Mike Marchand.

The cafeteria is converted into an Italian restaurant . . .

Kathy rattles off the flavors of tonic.

On March 25 the Junior Class brought a touch and a taste of Italy to the public. Nearly the entire class participated, as waitresses, cooks, or workers to make their first major class function a tremendous success.

"We use our own 'special' recipe."

The junior girls are taste-testers before the big crowd arrives.

The Junior Class babes in bibs.

These girls are smiling now; but just wait 'til they eat it.

. . . And into a coffeehouse

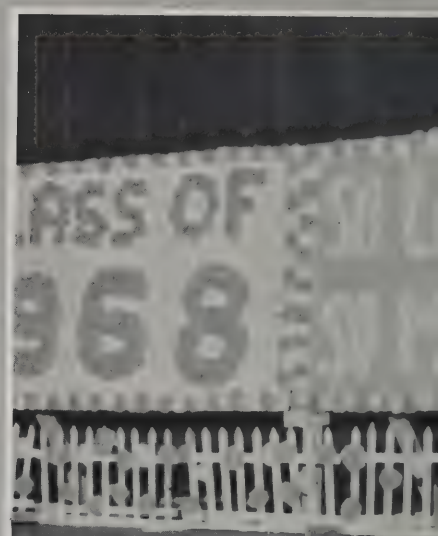

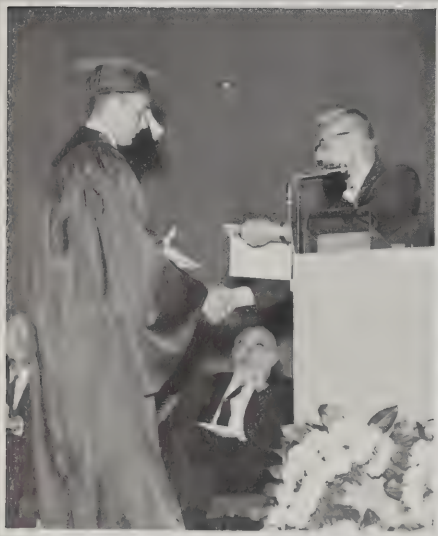

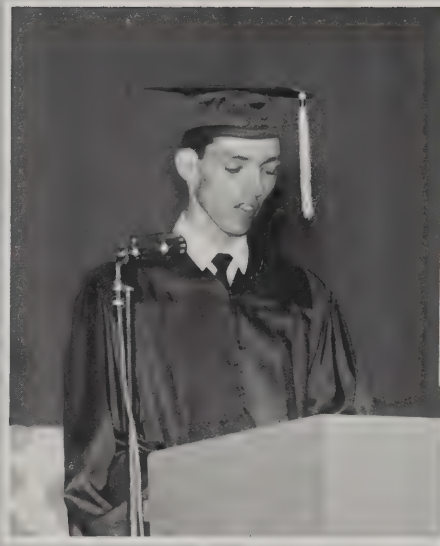

Leominster High's own jugband.

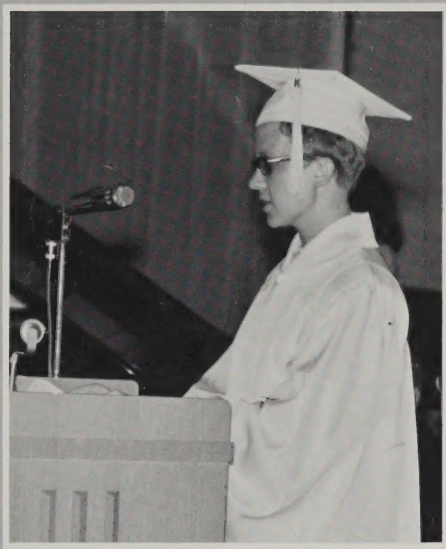

The lights dimmed, an aroma of coffee in the air, and good music—those who attended the Folk Music Club's Coffee-house Happening found that and much more, for they had the opportunity to see Leominster's own talent.

Sing it out.

Those final hours . . .

"... It is for us to pray not for tasks equal to our powers, but for powers equal to our tasks, to go forward with a great desire forever beating at the door of our hearts as we travel towards our distant goal."

Helen Keller

Mr. Cousins and his wife conclude the reception line.

It's days away yet; but too soon the night comes and the seniors realize that the time has come when each of them will go their separate ways. Good wishes, promises to keep in touch, and farewell.

Finally, the time for goodbyes . . .

A brief break from handshaking.

The seniors graciously greet parents and friends.

... and then the father-daughter, mother-son dance.

The seniors get tired of standing in line and begin to visit their friends.

No one seems to be having any difficulties . . .

... dancing with their parents.
